Description

Each Purist bottle is infused with silicon dioxide, which forms a protective glass-like barrier inside the bottle. This prevents odors, stains, and mold from attaching to the inner surface.

This Purist infusion is added after the bottle has been molded and is chemically bonded to the bottle wall. The barrier is an extremely thin 20 nanometers—over 5,000 times thinner than a human hair.

By infusing the silicon dioxide, no compromise is made to the structure, and the bottle remains totally flexible for easier drinking. It will not delaminate or fall off, even when the bottle is flexed over and over.
